European Youth Summit

ON INNOVATIVE PHILANTHROPY
AND SOCIAL ENTREPRENEURSHIP

10—12 MAY 2013, LONDON

ABOUT

The Nexus European Youth Summit on Innovative Philanthropy and Social Entrepreneurship 2013 aims to increase and improve philanthropy, impact investing and social entrepreneurship by convening diverse communities of youth for inspiration, learning and commitment to collaborative action.

The Summit will bring together young wealth-holders, social entrepreneurs and allies from around the world for a series of inspiring and thought-provoking conversations exploring the most pertinent social issues, the most innovative approaches to creating change and the most impactful ways to learn and collaborate together.

WELCOME

Nexus is a growing and dynamic network of young philanthropists, investors and social entrepreneurs who come together to discuss innovative solutions to the world's problems.

We are excited to welcome you into our community and hope you will take the opportunity to meet many new friends and allies at this summit.

We have gathered exceptional change-makers and thought-leaders all committed to connecting, collaborating and taking on leadership roles for our generation in shaping a better future. We invite you to learn, listen and share ideas, experiences and questions with one another and to see this weekend as an opportunity for reflection and growth.

We also ask that you help us maintain our culture of non-solicitation. Together we are planting the seeds of conversations that can grow into ideas that will change the world one day. Let's work to ensure it is sooner rather than later!

Thank you for joining us,

Jonah Wittkamper
Co-Founder & Global Director

Rachel Cohen Gerrol
Co-Founder & Global Curator

James Hurrell
Director of Nexus Europe

Opportunities to take the conversation further, during and beyond the Summit.

COLLABORATION LUNCH

It's OK to eat while you talk! See pages 7 & 8.

AFFINITY DINNER

Always a very popular part of the programme, the Affinity Dinner is an opportunity for participants to network in a more intimate and relaxed environment, enjoying conversations themed around areas of shared interest. Places are limited and, though subsidised, ticketed at £50 per person. To book your place: europeaffinitydinner2013.eventbrite.com.

OPEN SUNDAY

In response to feedback from our previous Summits, this Sunday is completely open space! It's a bit of an experiment, providing more time for you to have deeper, longer or more diverse conversations of your choosing. We'll finish early after brunch. But we encourage you to make your own plans to keep meeting, talking, planning and exploring the city together!

BREAKOUT SESSION DESCRIPTIONS

SATURDAY 11 MAY 2013

10:10am Breakouts 1

Clublounge Breakout 1.1: Diverse Approaches to Sustainability

Less than five percent of global philanthropy goes to supporting nature and wildlife, while investing in a “cleaner greener” world benefits our health and welfare, helps alleviate poverty, provides jobs and boosts rural economies. Come listen to how three change-makers from around the world are taking on sustainability in innovative ways. From helping preserve and restore the last remaining areas of wilderness and degraded habitats in Europe to creating new educational models so university students can learn to be more socially responsible and green conscious - these new approaches are moving the needle on assuring a greener future for us all. Also learn about the growing field of energy trading and carbon offsetting as an innovative way to build successful partnerships with companies who value the environment.

The Gallery Breakout 1.2: Innovation to Transformation – Impact Investing & Venture Philanthropy

The field of impact investing is attracting growing numbers of organizations and increasing amounts of money. By some estimates there are nearly 200 registered impact investment funds, and many foundations, networks and mainstream financial institutions are active in the field. Impact investors and venture philanthropists, however, have a range of expectations about appropriate financial and social returns. Some investors are drawn by the hope of earning substantial financial returns by investing in businesses that have a social mission. Others are drawn by the desire to achieve more sustainable impact than they could achieve through philanthropy alone. This session will discuss a number of important themes in this ever so important and growing field and how it can play a significant and transformative role for the 2.7 billion people who live on incomes of less than $2 a day.

The Boardroom Breakout 1.3: The Entrepreneurial Generation

This session will offer three entrepreneurs' perspectives on how entrepreneurship is influencing our education system and our workforce. Millennials see that our economy is more driven by how we use what we know, than just what we know. As a result, more young people than ever before are understanding the opportunities intrinsic in learning entrepreneurial skillets and becoming involved in entrepreneurship.

- 11:20am Breakouts 2
- The Gallery Breakout 2.1: Cross-Generational Wisdom & Creative Capitalism
Through an intimate discussion between two generations of one of Europe's largest family dynasties, this session will explore two different perspectives on the legacy of a family and how different generations are driving change for the future. Hearing from both an industry change agent who has driven social investment initiatives worldwide after 30 years in the family business, as well as a millennial looking to give the next generation a seat at the table, this conversation will explore how generations of a distinguished family are learning from each other.
- Clublounge Breakout 2.2: Accelerating Progress in Africa
Corporate Social Responsibility has become an essential element of doing business of all companies. Social initiatives that benefit stakeholders and the community are very important when it comes to Corporate Social Responsibility. When it comes to International Expansion, it is quite evident that the global business environment has become increasingly interconnected. This has made it paramount for corporations to expand their businesses to both developed and developing countries. Africa's market place is growing at a rapid rate and in order to accelerate the progress in Africa we must consider both of these factors.
- The Boardroom Breakout 2.3: For Profit For Good – Social Enterprise & Social Investment
A discussion on the big challenges and opportunities that social enterprise is bringing to the traditional philanthropy sector. Our panelists will promise to row over whether revenue rather than grant models can deliver more 'good', whether it's OK to get rich by saving the world and whether social investment can help people with good ideas grow bigger, quicker.
- 12:20pm Collaboration Lunch
- The Global Food Waste Scandal with Tristram Stuart, Feed the 5000
All the world's nearly one billion hungry people could be lifted out of malnourishment on less than a quarter of the food that is wasted in the US and Europe. That and more astounding revelations from author and campaigner Tristram Stuart will make sure you eat all your lunch, in his lunchtime presentation.
- Taking Social Good to a Global Scale with the United Nations Foundation
Alongside United Nations Week in New York, a three-day Social Good Summit last year included "The Global Conversation." With participants from nearly 150 countries, it was the largest single-day conversation on social change in the world. Inspired by this success, the UN Foundation is launching +SocialGood, hoping to ensure that this global conversation continues everywhere, every day, by uniting a global community of innovators around a shared vision that technology and new media can contribute to a better world. Join a lunch hosted by the United Nations Foundation and work with us to consider how together we ensure the success of +SocialGood and how you are a key part of the equation in helping us to take this to global scale.

Turning Pollution into Profits with Damascus Fortune

Come meet Erum Azeez, an entrepreneur featured on Unreasonable@Sea and learn about how Damascus Fortune Technologies, the only company in the world converting carbon emissions from industrial factories into the strongest materials known to man- carbon nanotubes. This material has innumerable applications, from semiconductors to spaceships! They are looking for strategic partners to optimize and distribute their technology and also to grow their existing intellectual property portfolio.

Internet Access for All with Ed Perkins, A Human Right

Join Ed Perkins to learn about A Human Right, a campaign to connect the 68% of the world's population who don't have Internet access. After running a pioneering crowdfunding campaign—But This Satellite—their latest initiatives bring together governments, telecommunications companies, and Internet users from around the world to help connect the disconnected. We're excited to share our experiences and hear your ideas for three new projects: Connect St. Helena, the Bandwidth Bank, and FreedomPop.

2:40pm

Breakouts 3

Clublounge

Breakout 3.1: Taking a Stand Against Gender Based Violence

This session will seek to explore gender-based violence, the impact that gender-based violence has on individuals and on society, and strategies for making our world a safer place for women and girls.

The Boardroom

Breakout 3.2: New Models in Philanthropy – If It Ain't Broke, Why Fix It?

A provocative discussion between two eminent philanthropists with divergent approaches to giving: One a social entrepreneur and one a grant-maker. How strategic and innovative can traditional grant-making really be? Does following a business model ensure a more successful outcome or is it just as reliant on the delivery mechanism? Join us to ask your most challenging questions about how philanthropy can really achieve social change.

The Gallery

Breakout 3.3: Next-Gen Family Business Successors Driving Social Change

A strategy consulting firm from UAE collaborates with one of the most innovative impact investing entrepreneurs from The Netherlands to make a direct impact in India. Hear how inheriting a family business became an opportunity to do good, which was good for business.

3:50pm	Breakouts 4
The Boardroom	Breakout 4.1: Film & Media for Social Change Through the use of film and digital media, more young people are finding ways to connect with organizations, causes and people they never would have found before. Join a lively discussion with two experts in the field who will share examples of how film can play a significant role in highlighting inequality, injustice and inhumanity. You will also get an inside look at how a new digital platform is using video, art and design to inspire a more conscious way of living - - and partnering with private sector companies who share core values to build even more momentum.
The Gallery	Breakout 4.2: Next Steps for the Next Generation Plan your philanthropic journey, or prepare your investing strategy by thinking about what support you need, what impact you want to have and what you'd like to learn. With guidance and inspiration, case studies of giving circles and practical exercises to get you set up and ready to.
Club lounge	Breakout 4.3: Constellations Any philanthropic enterprise depends on the quality of the relationships between the people and groups involved. Usually invisible, Constellations brings these to light for the benefit of all. This will be an experiential session – come with an open mind and prepared to have a go.
Meeting Room	Breakout 4.4: Governance as a Structure in the Family Business as well as in the Family Office Interactive workshop on governance as a structure covering all areas of the family business/family office from the targeted selection of HR, the building of appropriate risk management, the education for succession of younger generation, based on the family legacy and the family values.
