NEXUS
GLOBAL YOUTH SUMMIT
ON INNOVATIVE PHILANTHROPY AND SOCIAL ENTREPRENEURSHIP
24-27 JULY 2013
UNITED NATIONS
INFORMATION PACK
Greetings Nexus Participants!

We couldn't be more excited for this year's Summit. As you know, Nexus is an international network of more than 1000 young philanthropists, social entrepreneurs and influencers who work to increase and improve philanthropy and social impact investing. You and your peers make up a community from more than 50 countries, and assets of more than $100 billion in combined net worth. We convene you all because we believe that the combination of talent, time and treasure can solve some of the largest and most complex problems.

The 2013 Summit is the culmination of three years of growth. We can proudly say we've hosted three Global summits, two European summits, and several regional gatherings.

In the coming year, summits are planned for Brazil, Australia, Singapore, Mexico and Africa.

You're here because of your energy, passion and commitment to making the world a better place. We hope you enjoy reconnecting with old friends, making new ones, and finding new collaborators. We also want to challenge you all to introduce yourself to at least three new people, because the community is stronger with every new relationship built. We look forward to hearing about all your new projects and new partners!

In the meantime, have a wonderful Summit!

Rachel Cohen Gerrol and Jonah Wittkamper

United Nations Nations Unies

Dear Nexus Members,

The UN Office for Partnerships, with the support of the United Nations Inter-Agency Network on Youth Development (IANYD), is pleased to co-host the 2013 Nexus Global Youth Summit at the United Nations Headquarters, New York.

We have convened great minds to focus on global development’s opportunities, challenges, and collaborations. These subjects could not be more timely and your participation more important.

Over the next three days, you will be involved in discussion about the work of businesses, NGOs, social entrepreneurs, and multilateral agencies to empower youth around the world through financial inclusion, transparent and inclusive supply chains, and economic opportunities. You will draw on the Nexus members’ networks and relationships with governments, youth-led and youth-focused organizations, donor agencies, civil society organizations, multilateral organisations and others, to advance youth development.

We hope this year’s Summit helps identify key joint priorities and areas of on-going and future collaboration and exchange of information to reduce barriers to progress and accelerate sustainable solutions for poverty reduction. We invite you to join the conversation during the interactive Q&A sessions, as well as on Twitter using the hashtag #nexusgys2013.

Thank you for your participation. We hope you enjoy this Summit and are inspired by the discussions and presentations. Sincerely,

Roland Rich

Breakout Sessions 1

Breakout 1.1 – Intergenerational Transfer of Values
Michael Milstein, Partner, New York Private Bank & Trust
Steve Hilton, Chairman, President & CEO, Conrad Hilton Foundation
Steve Beverage, Associate Director, Abbot Downing

How can we ensure healthy dialog in our families across generations? In what ways do families of big enterprise use philanthropy and big business to facilitate the inter-generational transfer of values, both from younger generations up and elder generations down. Let’s learn together.
Breakout 1.2 – Sports for Peace & Development
Johan Koss, President, CEO and Founder, Right To Play

Today’s society requires new, innovative, sustainable and local development solutions in a global context. Through this workshop, participants will better understand how sport and play can be used as effective tools for behavioral change to improve educational outcomes, transform health practices and build civil societies.

Breakout 1.3 – Finding Your Voice in Philanthropy, Taking on a Role in the Family Foundation
Candice Meth, Senior Manager, EisnerAmper
Serena Kao, Deputy President, San Teh Foundation
Mary Galeti, Executive Director and Vice-Chair, Tecovas Foundation

As the next generation of philanthropists work to make their mark, it can sometimes be difficult to know where to start. Whether one is trying to modernize their families’ foundation within the fast-paced world of technology, or expand the mission of the foundation, there are tremendous resources available to you, if you know where to look. Today’s discussion will focus on panelists who have carried on their families’ legacy and how each of them took the existing philanthropic mission and made it their own. It will also contain a discussion on how to develop a mission for the foundation, which encompasses both the philanthropists’ passion and the unmet needs of the community.

Breakout 1.4 – The UN Delivering As One For Youth
Prateek Awasthi, Technical Analyst, UNFPA
Ravi Karkara, Expert on Youth and Children, UN Habitat
Margaret Chi, Governance Specialist, UNDP
Elizabeth Niland, Associate Social Affairs Officer, UN Department of Economic and Social Affairs
Jon-Andreas Solbert, UN Urban Youth Fund Manager, UN Habitat

There are close to 2 billion young people in the world today forming the largest and most-interconnected generation in history. Building on the opportunity for change offered by this young generation, the UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-Moon has made working with and for young people a priority of his Five-year Action Agenda. Putting forward a bold new plan, he announced the appointment of an Envoy on Youth, the creation of a UN Youth Volunteer Programme and the adoption of a UN System-wide Action Plan on Youth, that focuses on the following thematic areas: employment, entrepreneurship, political inclusion, civic engagement and protection of rights, education, including comprehensive sexuality education, and health. These initiatives are coordinated by the Inter-Agency Network on Youth Development, which brings together 29 entities within the United Nations to increase their effectiveness and responsiveness on issues of youth development. This session bring some of the members of the network to discuss how the United Nations is ready to support countries to invest in young people, promote their human rights and unleash their fullest potential.

Breakout 1.5 – New Investing for a New Generation
Jeremy Balkin, Founder and President, Karma Capital
Jose Rasco, Chief Investment Strategist, HSBC Private Bank
Zac Russel, Board Member, The Russel Family Foundation
Investment is no longer only about making money. How we make money matters. The pursuit of Profit and Philanthropy simultaneously is having a profound impact on financial markets. This Session will explore how younger generations are far more conscious of their investment strategies in this changing world and will seek to provide context to the new reality.

Issues in Focus

Breakout 1.6 – Women & Girls
Sylvia Wong, Technical Specialist, UN Population Fund
Lori Adelman, Associate, Every Woman Every Child, UN Foundation
Daphna Ziman, President, Cinemoi
Farah Mohamed, President and CEO, G(irls) 20 Summit
Shivani Siroya, Founder and CEO, InVenture

This has been described as the Decade of Decisiveness for Girls and Women. Watershed moments include the first-ever International Day of the Girl Child, the creation of UN Women, high-profile people and organizations elevating the discourse, G20 leaders acknowledging the need to include women, and more investments to advance the situation of girls, from various sectors including public, private and social profit sectors. Yet we still have work to do so that the 600 million girls in the world, especially the most disadvantaged girls in developing countries, can maximize their potential with education, information, tools, critical services and support.

Breakout 1.7 – How Pop Culture Can Drive Social Change
Darnell Strom, Executive, Creative Artists Agency (CAA)
Adrian Grenier, Actor, Director, Musician and Activist
David Katz, SVP Corporate Responsibility VIACOM
Jenna Bush Hager, Founder, The Novo Project
Naomi Hirabayashi, CMO, Do Something

We all know that popular culture can entertain. But it is also one of the influential forces behind a range social movements. Many NGO’s and philanthropists want to engage pop culture to champion their cause—but they don’t know how or where to start. We will explore who is doing it well, how to build authentic meaningful relationships between social causes and social influencers, and also what to avoid.

12:15 – 1:15pm Lunchtime Breakout A

This year at Nexus we offer two separate lunch break times - 12:15pm-1:15pm and 1:30-2:30pm. We invite you to attend a break-out session during one of these times and to visit the UN Cafeteria to purchase lunch during the other time.

Film Breakout 2.1 – Film Screening/ Q&A: An African Spring
Hadeel Ibrahim, Executive Director, Mo Ibrahim Foundation

Given the poignant political backdrop for the film—the military coup in Mali (once considered one of the most stable African democracies), violent political uprisings in Tunisia, Egypt and Libya, not to mention widespread corruption, poverty and weak infrastructure—there exists an urgent need for more in-depth examination of democracy. “An African Spring” aims to provide just that—an opportunity to focus on the Senegalese electoral process as it is faced with unconstitutional policy changes and questionable leadership, bringing to life a greatly underrepresented story and ultimately allowing audiences to experience a triumph of the Senegalese people. The film sheds light on Senegal’s democratic failures and ultimate success, and open dialogues among diverse audiences in an effort to improve the quality of politics worldwide.

Impact Investing

Breakout 2.2 – Impact Accelerators: Their Role in the Future of Impact Investing

Kalsoom Lakhani, Founder and CEO, Invest2Innovate

Jesse Grainger, Director of Marketing & Communications, Agora Partnerships

Marissa Sackler, Founder, BeeSpace

Ross Baird, Executive Director, Village Capital

Impact investing will not survive as an industry or a movement if it cannot identify and support the very best early-stage entrepreneurs with a strong vision for improving society. Accelerators have been successful in the tech space, but a new breed of accelerators is focused specifically on channeling human, social, and financial capital to entrepreneurs best positioned to turn that capital into long-term positive change. This panel discussion will involve entrepreneurs, impact accelerators and early-stage impact investing leaders to discuss one of the next generation’s most innovative and exciting contributions to building a more sustainable and healthy economy.

Innovation

Breakout 2.3 – Free Speech & Activism in a Digital Age

Julia Keserű, International Program Coordinator, Sunlight Foundation

Jake Horowitz, Co-Founder and Editor-in-chief, PolicyMic

Chris Sopher, Journalism Program Associate, Knight Foundation

In the age of Edward Snowden and the NSA spying controversy, the Open Government Partnership and technology-enabled transparency, the issue of free speech and digital online activism are hot. As newspaper budgets are in decline and the money for investigative journalism has dried up, traditional journalism from large publishers has become less of a check on power than in the past. In the place of investigative journalism, lots of organizations have begun popping up like Anonymous and Wikileaks, but they are controversial because many question their legal right to expose classified information. At the same time, we are now living in the golden age of informed decisions and that technology - when used properly - indeed has the power to disrupt the status quo, to stir conversation, change our attitude towards politics and decision-making and bring about meaningful change in the relationship between citizens and their elected representatives. Within this context, what are the tools available for citizens to hold public officials accountable in the digital age? How can regular people use the internet to become more active in policy and challenge elected officials? What are some of the legal ways and easily usable tools for people to speak up?

Issues in Focus

Breakout 2.4 – Incremental Design & Engineering: Pathways to Sustainability with the World’s Most Vulnerable Communities

Toby Cumberbatch, Creator, The Social Lite

Jason Moses, Founder, Common Thread

Cameron Sinclair, International Design Studios Education Outreach Lead, Architecture of Humanity

This discussion explores the successes, challenges and constraints of working with vulnerable communities in the incremental design process of architecture, engineering and construction. We examine how localized successes in MMMs (means, methods and mindsets) can be replicated and transformed into sustainable, scalable models for wider impact.
Task Force

Breakout 2.5 – Early Childhood Education

Leslie Falconer, CEO, Experience Early Learning Company
Roger Neugebauer, Co-Owner, Child Care Exchange
Anna Getty, Founder, Pregnancy Awareness Month
Lily Vatchanova, Liaison Officer at UNESCO

Join us in Building a Vision for Young Children around the World: Join us as we exchange ideas and consider new initiatives that support our youngest children and their families. Early childhood care and education is a multidisciplinary topic that is woven across many issues related to physical and mental health, economic development, environmental stewardship, peace building and human rights. Explore when childhood education first begins and its earliest influences. Come and share in the discussion about how incorporating the needs of young children into our diverse lines of work and philanthropy can yield a multi-generational impact.

Issues in Focus

Breakout 2.6 – Investing in Africa

Roberta Annan, CEO and Founder, Roberta Annan Consulting LLC
Bob Diamond, Former CEO, Barclays
Chris Cleverly, CEO, Made in Africa Foundation
Ozwald Boateng, Fashion Designer, Ozwald Boateng Brand
Anne Welsh
Emily Mellgard
Ambassador Youssoufou Bamba, Côte d’Ivoire

The African market is growing at an extremely rapid rate. International Business in India, China and Russia has been transformed and has developed through the engagement of the global business community and soon Africa will be too. The Investing in Africa Panel delivers information on the increasing demand for high quality relationships, with the growing African market amongst the international business arena.

Film

Breakout 2.7 – Media for Common Ground

John Marks, President, Search for Common Ground

This will be a multi-media presentation that demonstrates how different formats - reality shows, episodic drama, feature films, and music videos - can be used to deliver messages that promote positive social change. Short video clips of each format will be shown.

1:30 – 2:30pm

Lunchtime Breakout B

This year at Nexus we offer two separate lunch break times - 12:15pm-1:15pm and 1:30-2:30pm. We invite you to attend a break-out session during one of these times and to visit the UN Cafeteria to purchase lunch during the other time.

Philanthropy

Breakout 3.1 Innovative Platforms for Philanthropy

Lana Volftsun, Executive Director, One Percent Foundation
Gene Gurkoff, Founder, Charity Miles
Nadav Wilf, Founder and CEO, Enlightened.org
Rob Vaka, Founder, G2G Collection
Spencer Gerrol, CEO and Founder, SPARK Experience

We have reached a new era of giving through using digital technology and social networks to better the world. Today's innovators are focusing on ways to turn daily actions and interactions into opportunities to make a difference. From shopping to travel to exercise, technology is progressing and philanthropy is advancing alongside it. Join this session to learn from leaders in the field about innovations and new models of philanthropic living.

Issues in Focus

Breakout 3.2 – Creating Jobs in the Developing World
Margot Brandenburg, Senior Associate Director, Rockefeller Foundation
Robyn Scott, Co-Founder, Brothers for All
Kevin Cassidy, Senior Communications and External Relations Officer, ILO

Creating accessible, high-quality employment is key to promoting sustainable and broad-based economic development. There are many approaches to creating jobs, however, and little agreement on what approaches work best in which contexts. We will hear from people who have experimented with a variety of these approaches, and engage in a lively dialogue about how to support the most promising among them.

Breakout 3.3 – Reimagining Cities & Urban Environments
Will Meredith, Co-Founder and Director, MFI Real Estate LLC
Sergio Fernandez de Cordova, Co-Founder and Chief Business Development Officer, P3 Global Management Inc. & Chairman, PVBLIC Foundation

In this session the audience will engage with social entrepreneurs who leverage public-private partners for impact investing and civic development in urban environments. From re-imaging infrastructure for the 21st century to harnessing creative media and the social arts education curriculum, the panelists will detail their innovative portfolio of civic-minded projects from around the globe, complete with lessons learned and best practices for future efforts. This panel is not to be missed by those who are interested in identifying and leveraging how their sincere passions can meet the world’s deepest needs in our ever-more urbanizing world.

Breakout 3.4 – Stepping Out From Under the Shadow: How to Distinguish Oneself When a Parent’s Legacy Casts a Wide Shadow
Mary Ann Thompson-Frenk, President, Memnosyne Foundation
Rev. Chloe Breyer, Executive Director, Interfaith Center
John Zagat, MD

Our names, like our family legacies, can both define who we are, and make us feel trapped by those who came before us. Finding ways to be your own person, and make your own impact in the world, while being a part of a prominent family can be uniquely complicated. This dynamic conversation will wrestle with some of the ways to manage family legacy while building an independent identity.

Breakout 3.5 – Leading Entrepreneurs in Social Impact
Alexandra Peterson Cart, Co-Founder, Madeira Global Christina Alfonso, CEO, Madeira Global
Baily Kempner, Director, Endeavor Global
Jacqueline Holmes, Founder and CIO, Midori Management
Drawing from the experiences of 3 leading entrepreneurs in the world of social impact, the panel seeks to share best practices, lesson learned and tangible take aways for those aspiring to maximize their productivity while broadening their global impact on society.

Youth Breakout 3.6 – Networks & Initiatives that Create Global Citizens

Saul Garlick, Founder and CEO, ThinkImpact
Amy Baker, Executive Director, 2Seeds
Edward Bergman, Executive Director, Africa Travel Association
Sam Vaghar, Executive Director, Millenium Campus Network
Scott Beale, Founder and CEO, Atlas Corps

Travel can be a powerful way to facilitate social change, deepen our understanding of the world, and become global citizens. This is particularly true when done through organizations or with networks of likeminded change-agents. Learn about some of the most innovative global networks and travel opportunities that are changing the world and the people who participate in these adventures.

Film Breakout 3.7 – Film of Social Change

Wendy Ettinger, Co-Founder, Chicken & Egg Pictures
Emily Verellen, Director of Programs and Communications, The Fledgling Fund
Maria Cuomo Cole, Filmmaker, Chairwoman HELP USA
Sean Stone, Filmmaker

The opportunities to effect social change through film today lie in the connection between creative mentorship, funding, and advocacy, to create impact. Experts discuss the Intersection between advocacy and engagement, the unique scope of funding opportunities today and the importance of impact investing, as well as the importance of supporting, listening to and mentoring women filmmakers with unique voices.

2:45-4:15pm Afternoon Plenary

Conf. Rm. 1

“Panel of New Global Investors”:
Justin Kidong Kim, Founder and Honorary President, The Philanthropists
Greg Segal, Founder and Executive Director, Organ Alliance
Kyungsun Chung, Founder & CEO, Root Impact
Cedza Dlamini, Founder, Ubuntu Institute

4:45-5:45pm Breakout Sessions 4

Youth Breakout 4.1 – The Power of Generation Now

Jan Owen, CEO, Foundation for Young Australians
Alex Wirth, Founder, Youth Creating Action Network (YouthCAN)
Tayiona Sanangurai, Coordinator, Young Voices Network Zimbabwe
Vivian Onano, Student, Carthage College
Shamoy Hajare, Co-Founder, Youth Entrepreneurship Project (YEP)
Can young people really make a difference to the future, now? Inspiring stories and learnings on unleashing the talent of young people to tackle the issues of our time through: social entrepreneurship, enterprise development, youth led movements, and new models of service learning.

Impact Investing

Breakout 4.2 – The Future of Impact Investing: An Unreasonable Debate over Investing in People, Projects or Funds

Daniel Epstein, Founder and CEO, Unreasonable Group
Kim Scheinberg, Founder, Presumed Abundance
Daryn Dodson, Consultant, Calvert Group
Bruce Campbell, President, Campbell Law Group

This lively conversation will revolve around trends that are on the edge of impact investing. Our speakers will debate the merits and fallbacks of whether investing in people, projects, companies, or funds is most effective. Furthermore, we will dive into the difficulties (and nuances) of achieving liquidity in early stage investments across emerging markets.

Philanthropy

Breakout 4.3 – Next Gen Donors: Respecting Legacy, Revolutionizing Philanthropy

Sharna Goldseker, Managing Director, 21/64
Shawn Landres, Co-Founder and CEO, Jumpstart
Mary Galeti, Executive Director and Vice-Chair, Tecovas Foundation

Millennials have been moving into giving for years. They have been joining their family philanthropy, participating in giving circles, and organizing fundraisers both online and offline for at least a decade. However, no one has captured their story until now. In the last year, two studies have captured what is happening with young people and giving. #NextGenDonors, organized by 2164 and the Dorothy Johnson Center on Family Philanthropy at Grand Valley State University have captured the story of the next generation of major donors. Jumpstart’s forthcoming National Study of American Jewish Giving and National Study of American Religious Giving cover where and why Jews and other Americans of all ages, incomes, and giving levels, make charitable contributions to secular and religious causes. This highly interactive session will explore the stories and experiences that guide us, influence our giving, and ultimately define us as a generation.

Innovation

Breakout 4.4 – Innovating Education

Hasan Askari, Partner, K1 Capital Advisors
Michael Carter, Founder, President and CEO, Strive for College
Charles Best, Founder and CEO, DonorsChoose.org

Education is considered the building block of a successful life, a vibrant community and a healthy and productive society. However, the education system, both in the US and internationally, is failing to serve the needs of the modern student. This conversation will explore some models for changing and improving how we serve students and teachers. The speakers will also explore the ways in which we can all get involved!

Task Force

Breakout 4.5 – Mental Health Equals Future Success

Ross Szabo, Author of Behind Happy Faces & Ceo, Ross Szabo Consulting
Alison Malmon, Executive Director, Active Minds
Patrick Kennedy, Former Member, US House of Representatives

Mental health education is a new area for social innovation. Twenty percent of people worldwide experience a mental health disorder, depression is the leading cause of missed workdays and an endless amount of people are dealing with the emotional fallout of poverty, war, suicide, disease, and natural disasters. Creating programs that raise awareness for mental health, teach young people how to cope, and open conversation about these issues are vital to the future of our world.

Task Force Breakout 4.6 – Stop the Violence, Start the Love: Addressing Violence in Communities and the Criminalization of Youth
Christina Hollenback, Former Director, Generational Alliance
Harry Belafonte, Artist/Activist/Actor
Carmen Perez, Executive Director, The Gathering for Justice
Thenjiwe McHarris, Senior Campaigner, Amnesty International

What are ways we can address the root causes to stop violence before it starts? Does 'Getting tough on crime' work? What are the programs that rehabilitate young people? And what responsibility do we all have in this effort? Join world-renowned actor, activist, and artist Harry Belafonte along with practitioners and artists for this in-depth analysis and discussion.

Issues in Focus Breakout 4.7 – Building Peace
Philip Hellmich, Director of Peace Company, The Shift Network
Olivia Hansen, Founder and President, The Synthesis Foundation
Nathan Otto and Amber Lupton, Founders, The Safe Conflict Project
Cecile Mazzacurati, Youth & Gender Policy Advisor, Peacebuilding Support Office
Eva Vander Giessen, Creative Director, MEET (Middle East Education through Technology)

In the past few decades, there has been an exponential growth of initiatives around the world to promote peace from the inner to the international levels and across multiple sectors of society. Since 1997, the United Nations General Assembly has adopted resolutions every year in support of a culture of peace. UNESCO launched the International Year for a Culture of Peace (2000) and the International Decade for a Culture of Peace and Non-Violence (2001-2010). Yet many of our communities face increased violence, polarization and complex issues demanding unprecedented cooperative approaches. This participatory session will explore how the Nexus community can contribute to an emerging peace movement and the creation of a culture of peace.

PROGRAM: FRIDAY 26 JULY 2013
Venue: United Nations
9:00 -10:30am Morning Plenary- Inspiration to Action

11:00am - 12:00pm
Breakout Sessions 5

Film

Breakout 5.1 – Chasing Ice
Jeff Orlowski, Director, "Chasing Ice"

Chasing Ice is the story of one man’s mission to change the tide of history by gathering undeniable evidence of climate change. Using time-lapse cameras, his videos compress years into seconds and capture ancient mountains of ice in motion as they disappear at a breathtaking rate. The film has comprehensive outreach efforts to educate the world about climate change and the importance of environmental protection.

Innovation

Breakout 5.2 – Tech Startups on the Edge of Possibility
Erine Gray, Founder, AuntBertha.com
Jack Andraka, Inventor and Scientist
Daniel Epstein, CEO, Unreasonable Group
Kosta Gramatis, Founder and CEO, A Human Right

A small group of gifted entrepreneurs at the intersection of technology and impact will outline their predictions for what the next-generation of startups will look like. From the development of an artificial eye, to bringing internet access to the world and disrupting our government with software... In this conversation we will get into the nitty gritty of the challenges and opportunities embedded in leveraging entrepreneurship to tackle seemingly intractable social, environmental, and planetary problems.

Impact Investing

Breakout 5.3 – Faith and Impact Investing
Shawn Landres, Co-Founder and CEO, Jumpstart
Julie Hammerman, Founder, JLens Investor Network
John Kim, Founder, Karamaan Group
Jenna Nicholas, Co-Founder, Calvert Funds

What role does faith play in impact investing? Join Jenna Nicholas (Calvert Foundation) as she leads a conversation with Julie Hammerman (JLens) and John Kim (MSD Capital), sharing investing perspectives rooted in three diverse faith backgrounds, Bahai, Jewish, and Christian respectively. A Nexus exclusive: the JLens Rabbi Survey on Impact Investing will be released at this session.

Philanthropy

Breakout 5.4 – Philanthropy Roadmap
Ellen Israelson, VP of Marketing and Donor Relationships, Jewish Communal Fund

The objective of the interactive Roadmap session is guide Funders, both new and more established, on their philanthropic journey and help them be more intentional and effective with their giving. We will use the guide and accompanying discussion questions to exploration of the five key milestones on this path.
Innovation
Breakout 5.5 – Do Epic Sh*t: How to Build Partnerships to Take on Wicked Problems
John Kluge, Founder, Toilet Hackers
Chris Fabian, Co-Creator and Co-Leader, UNICEF Innovation
Alanna Imbach, Media & Communications Officer, Water Aid America
Michael Sheldrick, Global Policy and Advocacy Manager, Global Poverty Project
William Kennedy, Senior Programme Officer, UNOP
Zak Kostura, Associate, ARUP

We live in a world of super-sized challenges. To conquer these challenges, we need super-sized alliances. In this panel, we'll hear how different organizations are uniting and innovating to solve the world's sanitation and hygiene crisis which affects over 2.5 billion people. Find out you can join their mission or apply these lessons in collaboration to your own epic-sized challenge!

Philanthropy
Breakout 5.6 – Luminary Leadership in Action: Business, Finance and Philanthropy
Retu Jalhan, Director of Business Development, The RMP Group
Chirinjeev Kathuria, Chairman, PLANETSPACE
Richard Powell, Chairman, The RMP Group

How do today’s leaders manage to do it all? How do they run a business and contribute to their communities? How did a handful of minorities rise up the ranks and become game changers? Who are some of the luminaries here in the US that are bridging gaps to solve problems around the world and domestically? Come meet some of the Luminaries profiled in Richard Powell’s upcoming book Luminaries: 15 Inspirational Leaders Who Will Change The World. Hear some of the challenges they faced and their stories of success! Learn firsthand how they achieved their goals and which non-profit sectors they are most passionate about supporting.

Issues in Focus
Breakout 5.7 – The Future of Energy
Sarah Wood, Executive Director, PRIME
Ivan Vera, Senior Sustainable Development Officer, UNDESA
Victor Bogachev, Coordinator, Nexus Russia
Tom Valone, President, Integrity Research Institute

In the past 40 years global energy consumption has nearly doubled. What can we do to ensure a sustainable future? What is the role of industry? What is the role of philanthropy? What hope is there for a sustainable future?

Impact Investing
Breakout 5.8 – Philanthropy v Impact Investing: balancing social impacts and sustainability
Ladislav Kossar, Founder and CEO, Provida Foundation
Ruma Bose, Managing Director, Innovators Fund
Martin Fisher, Co-Founder and CEO, Kickstart International

In this interactive session we will explore the relative virtues of impact investing and philanthropy. What types of problems can best be solved with philanthropy or with impact investing? How can we know which is required when, where and for how long? We will look at the potential for social and financial returns of different social enterprises – including for tackling the participants' personal favorite causes — and explore the factors that determine the relative needs for different types of capital to solve different types of social and environmental challenges.

12:15-1:15pm  Lunchtime Breakout A
This year at Nexus we offer two separate lunch break times - 12:15pm-1:15pm and 1:30-2:30pm. We invite you to attend a break-out session during one of these times and to visit the UN Cafeteria to purchase lunch during the other time.

Film
Breakout 6.1 – Disrupters Collaboration
Amanda Cole, Co-Producer, Filmmaker, Actor, Social Entrepreneur
Russell Darrow, Co-Producer

We are in the midst of a Social Responsibility Revolution in which “doing good” has transitioned from the revered exception to the expected norm. Disrupter- individuals or groups whose unconventional ideas, strategies, and behaviors enable them to achieve more effective solutions to world problems than their peers- are responsible for altering the workings of traditional business and the way it is funded in order to incorporate a social good into existing value structures and measurements of impact. This documentary aims to celebrate those who are disrupting traditional business, financial models, and markets in an effort to inspire viewers to consider ways in which they can create value in their lives and the lives of others. We are seeking a team to help us spread this message.

Philanthropy
Breakout 6.2 – Design Thinking and Philanthropy
Nadia Roumani, Fellow and Lecturer, Stanford Design School

Join Nadia Roumani, Stanford Design School Lecturer and 2012-13 Fellow, for a hands-on experiential workshop on design thinking. During the workshop, participants will run through a complete design thinking cycle, and learn about ways to apply design thinking to philanthropy and social innovation. She will share her experience and insights in applying design thinking as a foundation program officer, and in launching a new online philanthropic platform for American Muslims. Nadia has been leading workshops for foundations across the country, most recently with the Gates, Hewlett and the Council on Foundations.

Task Force
Breakout 6.3 – Task Force on Youth Policy
Christina Hollenback, Former Executive Director, Generational Alliance
Leon Galindo, Founder, Net OrganiX
Saji Prelis, Director, Children and Youth Programs, Search for Common Ground

Young people come into the world hungry for participation, but many political systems do not engage our youth effectively. What can we do to mobilize, engage, and give meaningful voice to young people in positive ways? This interactive workshop will help craft a youth-focused policy agenda for Nexus, as well as identify steps we can take to move this platform forward. What youth policies can we elevate for you? Let's make it happen.

Breakout 6.4 – Accessing Purpose and Potential: Evidence Based Practices for Developing Quality of Life and Leadership
Katie Greenman, Tufts University, Challenge Day
David Chang, Founder, On Purpose Network
Claudia Welss, Founder, Global Coherence Initiative, Former Director Executive Development

What are our next steps towards living a fulfilling life and having a positive impact? Come explore evidence-based practices on social and emotional development, finding and living our purpose, the importance of heart-based coherence, and the value of collaboration and community. In this interactive session, we will share the latest findings on how our wellbeing, purpose, connectedness and consciousness build the foundation for positive, effective and sustainable impact in our personal and professional lives.

Task Force
Breakout 6.5 – Task Force to Combat Trafficking
Caitlin Ho, Initiative for Girls and Women Associate, NoVo Foundation
Mike Keriakos, President, Digital Health
Claire Schmidt, Director of Programs, Thorn: Digital Defenders of Children

Up to 27 million people are victims of human trafficking or forced labor at any given point in time. How can we use our privilege to make a difference? What can we do with business? What can we do politically? Come help develop a program to guide Nexus members and others.

Issues in Focus
Breakout 6.6 – Arts for Change
Meklit Hadero, Co-Founder, Nile Project
Ben Bronfman, Co-Founder, Global Thermostat
Mina Girgis, Co-Founder, Nile Project

When young people get their hands on ART almost anything is possible. What role do arts and artists play in driving business, politics, and social change? How can young investors and social entrepreneurs partner more with artists to save the world?

Impact Investing
Breakout 6.7 – Impact Investing and Scale
Chad Bolick, Associate Director of Partnerships, Foundation Strategy Group
Noel Poyo, Executive Director, National Association of Latino Community Asset Builders
Noorani Sukardi, Regional Head of Fundraising and Communication Strategist, DeforestAction

Investing money in ways that align with your values can be an important tool in the arsenal of any effective change maker. However, questions of scaling what works can plague even the savviest of investors. This session will explore some of the challenges and opportunities around investing in enterprises with an eye towards growth and scale.

1:30pm-2:30pm
Lunchtime Breakout B

This year at Nexus we offer two separate lunch break times - 12:15pm-1:15pm and 1:30-2:30pm. We invite you to attend a break-out session during one of these times and to visit the UN Cafeteria to purchase lunch during the other time.

Film
Breakout 7.1 – Blood Brother
Leigh Blake, Founder, Keep A Child Alive

Blood Brother is an intimate portrait of Rocky Braat, a young man who longed to find a family. He didn’t know it, but this desire would lead him to an AIDS hostel in India, a place of unspeakable hardship, where he would find almost more love and need than he could bear. The film’s outreach works to raise funds to expand housing for teens aging out of the orphanage and offer training to kickstart their career education.

Issues in Focus
Breakout 7.2- Reinventing Higher Education for the Entrepreneurial Generation
Rebecca Kantar, Founder and CEO, BrightCo
David Burstein, Co-Founder, Run for America

Hear from two Millennials who took unconventional paths and learned the importance of teaching entrepreneurial thinking along the way. Higher education institutions are no longer optimized to prepare graduates for succeeding in the 21st century. Discuss and understand how and why higher education needs to change to ensure talent flows into society in a way that works.

Issues in Focus Breakout 7.3 – New Solar Entrepreneurship
Billy Parish, President, Mosaic
Eden Full, Founder, Roseicollis Foundation
Michael Sidgmore, Director of Institutional Investments, Mosaic

What is the future of solar? Two stories: 1) A model Nexus partnership, Billy Parish, a social entrepreneur, and Michael Sidgmore, a responsible young asset holder, explain how they came together to build Solar Mosaic and how a generation of peers can work together to solve the biggest challenges of our time. 2) A model teenage social entrepreneur, Eden Full received a Thiel Fellowship to work on Roseicollis Technologies, an embryonic social enterprise to take her solar panel tracking invention, among other appropriate technologies, to developing communities that need them through local innovation, awareness and engagement. What can we learn from these two case studies? How can Nexus support them?

Impact Investing Breakout 7.4 – Profit Propels Purpose: On the Frontiers of Impact Investing
Abigail Noble, Global Leadership Fellow, World Economic Forum
Nell Derick Debevoise, Founder and Principal, Inspiring Capital
Margot Brandenburg, Senior Associate Director, Rockefeller Foundation
Oren Bass, CEO, Pave.com

There is a lot of buzz about Impact Investing. Some call it "profit with a purpose". Others say it is either a more sensible approach to philanthropy or it allows investors to act with their hearts. We'll talk about that. And we'll explore the role that hard-nosed investors are playing, how foundations and governments are creating the enabling environment for it's future... as well as how impact investing is accessible to millions of micro-philanthropists. But most importantly, we'll discuss how everyday human beings like you can get engaged!

Issues in Focus Breakout 7.5 – Working with Indigenous Cultures
Mary Ann Thompson-Frenk, President, Memnosyne Foundation
Her Excellency Oye Aina Olomo
Andras Corban-Athen, Director of Indigenous Cultures, Parliament of World Religions
Tonatiuh Cervantes, President, The Centro Cultural Tolteca de Teotihuacan
Kalu Ugwuomo, North American Regional Coordinator, Nexus Africa
Javier L. Kinney, Yurok Tribe Office of Self-Governance

The cultures of indigenous peoples are one of the most under-appreciated assets in our global community. This incredible session will feature leaders from different indigenous cultures from around the world sharing wisdom and experience so we can be mindful of in the work we do locally and globally. We are honored to have the opportunity to celebrate cultural differences and explore new ways to work together in preserving the world for future generations.
Issues in Focus  Breakout 7.6 – Beauty is a Lie and the Other Truths of Ethical Fashion
Rahilla Zafar, Advisory Board Member, ARZU
Elizbeth Schaeffer Brown, Co-Founder, Maiden Nation

Fashion is ultimately about appearances, but ethics ask more of us. How to negotiate the world of fashion, the language of desire, and beauty with realities that are fundamentally unglamorous. While speaking the Truth to power is precarious, speaking the truth to beauty is no easier. Come meet two leaders in the field selling unique goods crafted by local artisans around the world and hear about innovative models creating sustainable jobs in Afghanistan, Saudi Arabia, Pakistan, Haiti, Rwanda, Lebanon and beyond.

Impact Investing  Breakout 7.7 – Designing the Next Generation Investment Approach
John Morris, Co-Founder and Managing Partner, Snowden Capital Advisors LLC
Logan Morris, Advisory Associate, Snowden Capital Advisors LLC
John Coyne, Vice-Chairman, Brinker Capital

The world is changing, and so is the way the next generation is investing. Through a discussion with two industry veterans bringing years of investment experience, both in the US and globally, this session will discuss key issues facing wealth management for next generation wealth holders and best practices for the future.

Issues in Focus  Breakout 7.8 – Political Bridge Building
John Steiner, Partner, Transpartisan Center
Mark Shoul, Executive Director, Hands Across North Quabbin (HANDS)
Aakif Ahmad, Vice President and Co-Founder, Convergence
Ross Rocketto, Founder, Running to Govern

Over the past few decades Americans have increasingly associated with news sources, neighborhoods and religious congregations that match their lifestyles and beliefs. As they have polarized culturally the country has paralyzed politically. What can be done at both local and national levels to solve the problem?

2:45pm- 3:45pm  Breakout 8.1 – Girl Rising
Megan Hershiser, 10x10 Campaign Associa

CNN Films’ "Girl Rising," directed by Academy Award nominee Ricahrd Robbins, tells the stories of girls across the globe and the power of education to change the world. The stories are told with the help of celebrated writers and renowned actresses such as Meryl Streep, Cate Blanchett and Anne Hathaway. The 10x10 Fund for Girls’ Education has partnered with key influencers in an outreach plan to produce significant impact.

Innovation  Breakout 8.2 – Next-Gen Family Business Intrapreneurship
Philippe Lanier, Vice President, Eastbanc Inc.
Saad Umerani, CSR Director, ValuStrat
Jim Epstein, Chairman, EFO Capital Management

Got a family business? Want to use the resources at your disposal to do good for people, but also for your bottom line? Did your family business go public and compel you to become a shareholder activist years later? Come learn from family business intrapreneurs and lead your family into a socially responsible future.

Philanthropy
Breakout 8.3 – How to Start a Foundation
Brent Lipschultz, Partner, EisnerAmper
Khaliya Aga Khan, Founder, KJAK
Grant Elliott, Product Engineer, Foundant Technologies
Kyungsun Chung, Founder, Root Impact

Starting a Foundation to build and preserve your philanthropic legacy. This session focuses on best practices for developing and implementing a philanthropic blue print and whether or not philanthropy is right for you.

Innovation
Breakout 8.4 – Global Health Innovators
Jonathan Swerdlin, Founder, FluArmor
Geeta Lai, Midwifery Programme Coordinator, UN Population Fund
Prabhjot Singh, Director of Systems Design, Earth Institute
Shivani Garg Patel, Co-Founder, Samasource

What do epidemiology, crowd funded surgeries, midwifery, systems design, and government contracts have in common? Come discuss the union of global health and social entrepreneurship?

Philanthropy
Breakout 8.5 – Duped, Misguided, or Blindly Altruistic - A Debate On Why Good Intentions Miss the Mark
Ryan Ansin, Co-Founder, Clarity Project
Jeffrey Teitler, Director, Envision Films
Rebecca Riccio, Program Director, Northeastern Students 4 Giving (NS4G)

Exclusive footage and stories from the front lines of youth violence prevention efforts reveal a provocative portrait of the non-profit sector and philanthropy. A filmmaker offers insight into the real-world implications of failed intentions while a nonprofit strategist discusses the persistent challenges that compromise the efficacy of philanthropy. Participants will leave with practical strategies for maximizing the impact of philanthropic resources and leveraged outcomes.

Innovation
Breakout 8.6 – Changing the World Through Entrepreneurship
Tabreez Verjee, Founder and Partner, Uprising
Seth Bannon, Founder and CEO, Amicus
Rachael Chong, Founder, Catchafire
Saad Khan, Partner, CMEA Capital

Meet the folks behind Amicus, Catchafire, Change.org, Kiva.org, Lending Club, Purpose, Upworthy, Watsi.org, and Zaarly. Get the inside scoop on their journeys.... from the moment of inspiration through the belly of the whale and onto how they are achieving impact at scale. After they share some of their secrets and insights they'll attempt to divine where it all goes from here.

Task Force
Breakout 8.7 – Task Force on Global Campaigns for Philanthropy
Clyde McConaghy, Founder, Optima Boards
Adam Pickering, Future World Giving Director, Charities Aid Foundation
Amir Dossal, Founder and Chairman, Global Partnerships Forum
John Goldstein, Managing Director, Imprint Cap
Can Nexus members help pass a UN resolution calling for a Global Campaign for a Culture of Philanthropy? What policies are at play? What UN actors are interested? What benchmarks do we have for organizing?

Issues in Focus

Breakout 8.8 – Killing (Poverty) Porn: Shifting from Ego-Driven to Effectiveness-Driven Giving

Tami Kesselman, Co-Chair, UN Wireless Initiative
Taylor Conroy, Founder, Change Heroes
Tess Mateo, Founder, CxCatalyst
Jessica O. Matthews, Founder, Uncharted Play
Jeremy Heimans, Founder and CEO, Purpose.com

With children starving and people dying TODAY who need urgent help (handouts), is it really even possible to permanently kill old aid models where ‘the haves’ give handouts to ‘the helpless masses’, and completely shift to collaborating with locals for empowering their futures instead, without abandoning those most urgently in need? This panel brings together top experts who have conceived innovative new partnership models and are successfully bridging the gap between urgent need and systemic change. They will be sharing stories of surprising partnership failures and how to avoid those pitfalls and, more importantly, new innovative structures for partnerships that work -- giving ‘aid’ dollars more sustainability and better impact effectiveness than ever before.

4:15pm - 5:45pm
Closing Plenary – Looking Toward the Future

“Welcome” – Annette Richardson, Senior Advisor, United Nations Office for Partnerships

Nexus Global Delegates,

The Australian chapter of the Nexus global movement will gather in Sydney from 20 to 22 October 2013 for a series of inspiring and thought-provoking conversations.

We invite you to join us in Sydney, alongside some of the most outstanding social entrepreneurs and young wealth givers from Australia and across the globe. The Summit will begin the movement of rethinking philanthropy in Australia, and allow participants to interrogate and debate pertinent issues with their peers. Together we will explore innovative approaches to creating change and discover opportunities to collaborate for greater impact.

The Nexus Australian Youth Summit is proudly hosted by the Foundation for Young Australians. This is a unique opportunity to connect with participants from Australia and around the world to elevate the importance of private giving. We welcome delegates from around the world to join us.

Participation in the Summit is free, by invitation only. Applications are now being accepted, apply at fya.org.au/nexus.

Applications close Friday 30 July 2013.

We look forward seeing you in Sydney this coming October, if you have any queries please email nexus@fya.org.au

Kind Regards,
