

WELCOME

You are part of a movement. While our country faces a culture of divisive politics and mounting challenges for the next generation, young people are moved to action and forging innovative public-private philanthropic partnerships. To harness the power of the millennial generation around these issues, three organizations have joined forces.

- The Millennial Action Project works to renew American democracy through next generation leadership.
See: www.MillennialAction.org
- Nexus works to advance philanthropy and impact investing by bridging communities of wealth and social entrepreneurship.
See: www.NexusYouthSummit.org
- Children Uniting Nations works to improve the lives of at-risk youth through advocacy and mentorship.
See: www.ChildrenUnitingNations.org

Together, we have designed a summit convened on and around Capitol Hill to help move the needle on some of the most pressing issues of our generation. We are excited to invite you to join our movement and help make this summit the first of many that will help elevate the voices of young people into the circles of power that need to hear them most.

Welcome to the inaugural Congressional Summit on Next Generation Leadership.

Sincerely,

Rachel Cohen Gerrol

Room 2

Meryl Comer (Beene Foundation)

Zach Russell (Russell Family Foundation)

Michael Davidson (Gen Next)

John Steiner

Young or old, Democrat or Republican. We depend on each other to address pressing issues: environment, health, security, and more. How can donors help to bridge divides in the family, in politics, and in local communities?

3:30 - 4:30pm

BREAKOUT 1.2

COMMON GROUND ON CRIMINAL JUSTICE REFORM

7th Floor
Conference
Room

Seema Gajwani (Public Welfare Foundation) Pat Nolan (American Conservative Union Foundation)
Will Ruger (Charles Koch Foundation) Julie Stewart (Families Against Mandatory Minimums)
Nkechi Taifa (Open Society Foundations)

With nearly a million non-violent offenders behind bars, there is growing support for reform. What can donors do? How can we together overcome political gridlock at state and federal levels and promote solutions?

BREAKOUT 1.3

DOING DEMOCRACY: TRANSPARENCY OF NON-PROFIT AND POLITICAL FUNDING

Room 3

Patrick Gage (Carlson Family Foundation) John Tyler (Kauffman Foundation)
Sarah Stranahan (Free Speech for People) Hans von Spakovsky (Heritage Foundation)

Citizens United catalyzed a debate about the role of money in politics. How did this decision affect non-profits and what is their role in this debate? Come and learn the campaign finance rules for 501c3s, C4s, 527s, and SuperPACs, and why some donors are working to change them.

OVERCOMING OBSTACLES: THE PROMISE OF ENTREPRENEURSHIP

7th Floor
Conference
Room

Randolf Adler (RK Adler LLP) Ibrahim Al-Husseini (Husseini Group)
Melissa Bradley (Georgetown University) Scott Resnick (Madison City Council)

Often called the Startup Generation, rising tides of millennial entrepreneurs are changing the world. Join a conversation about the cultural and political challenges they face. Are crowd funding and social impact investing the future of business?

BREAKOUT 2.2

THE FUTURE OF PHILANTHROPY & INNOVATION

Room 2

Mary Galeti (Tecovas Foundation) David Harris (Institute for the Future)
Alexandre Mars (Epic Foundation) Laurie Michaels (Open Road Alliance)

In the face of rapid and ongoing change, the philanthropic community struggles to attend unmet and unpredictable needs. How can we innovate the philanthropic marketplace to think longer term and prepare for the unexpected? What is the future of philanthropy?

BREAKOUT 2.3

FAMILIES AND THE JOURNEYS OF YOUNG INVESTORS

Room 3

Stephanie Cordes (Cordes Foundation) Suzanne Kiani (Deloitte Consulting)
Hendrick Lee (Palm Drive Ventures) Kristy Rodriguez (The Sampson Foundation)

What are real-life opportunities and challenges of working with family to create impact? What are the inner and outer struggles that inheritors and members of big business families face?

BREAKOUT 2.4

REVITALIZING OUR URBAN CENTERS: INVESTING IN SMARTER, SAFER, FAMILY-FRIENDLY CITIES

Room 1

Aisha Alexander (KaBOOM!) Sergio Fernandez de Cordova (P3GM)
Jack Hidary (Entrepreneur & Investor) Garrett Snider (Foundation for Community Engagement)

By 2050 over two-thirds of people will live in cities. Decisions made today are critical to shaping the future of what our urban centers look like. How can public-private partnerships bring new technology, bike-sharing, playgrounds, child-centered advocacy and other longer term visions to our urban centers?
